

It's Finally Time to Ask Is It Possible To Have It All?

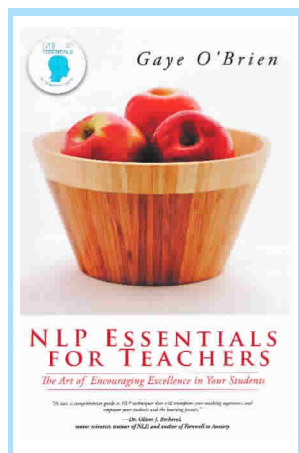

Would you like to have a great business or career, demonstrate personal leadership, passion and resiliency and also have enough time and energy left for the rest of your life?

Gaye O'Brien was a teacher who was stressed and burnt-out. She specialized in an area where most of the students had many challenges and came from dysfunctional backgrounds.

She wanted to stay in her job so decided to change her mindset rather than change her career. Gaye trained as an NLP (Neuro-Linguistics Programming) trainer and was able to implement powerful language techniques with her staff, parents and students. Adopting these strategies allowed her to foster better relationships, model greater rapport and implement more effective teaching practices within the school environment.

Today Gaye works with individuals, teachers, businesses and associations to help them develop empowering ways of thinking in their chosen environments. She coaches and speaks to audiences around the globe and spreads the word from her book, "NLP Essentials for Teachers: The Art Of Encouraging Excellence In Your Students."
